Dear Dr. Waxman:

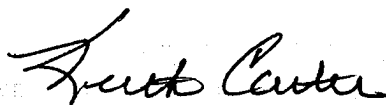

The University of Iowa Department of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences seeks several qualified and dynamic physicians to join our top-ranked department. Opportunities for full-time tenure or non-tenure clinical track faculty positions exist in several key service areas including a position in Comprehensive Ophthalmology. Individuals interested in advancing their ophthalmology careers in a challenging and rewarding setting are encouraged to apply.

Our department enjoys has a long, rich tradition and offers a collaborative and diverse working environment. Dedicated faculty and staff share a commitment to excellence and our mission within an academic medical center. The University of Iowa offers an exceptional benefits package and many other support resources to help employees balance their professional and personal lives. Additionally, Iowa City consistently ranks high as a "best place to live" and top college town. The area features an excellent quality of life and low cost of living with an array of cultural, educational, and recreational activities.

Applicants must have graduated from a fully-accredited ophthalmology residency and be certified or eligible for the American Board of Ophthalmology and licensure in the state of Iowa. Rank and salary will be commensurate with experience and credentials. Individuals are expected to have a strong commitment to clinical care, teaching, and research in an academic setting. The University of Iowa is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Individuals are welcome to contact me to discuss opportunities in detail and visit our website for information about the department (<http://webeye.ophth.uiowa.edu>). Thank you for your consideration and for sharing this with those who may be interested.

Sincerely,

Keith D. Carter, M.D.
Professor and Head
